

About the Authors

MA. JOY V. ABRENICA is a Professor at the School of Economics, University of the Philippines Diliman and Research Fellow at the Center for the Advancement of Trade Integration and Facilitation. Her research interests are in energy, telecommunications, competition policy and trade.

AGUSTIN L. ARCENAS is an Associate Professor and Director of the Public Affairs Office at the U.P. School of Economics. He earned his PhD in Agricultural Economics (with Environmental and Natural Resource Economics as the field of specialization) at Michigan State University in East Lansing, MI. He earned his MS in Applied Economics from the University of Wisconsin in River Falls, WI, and his BA in Economics (with honors) from the UP School of Economics. Prior to joining the faculty of UPSE, he was a member of the Policy and Economics Team (PET) as a consultant and Environmental Economist in the (then) Environment Department of the World Bank in Washington, DC.

JOHANNES R. BERNABE is Commissioner of the Philippine Competition Commission, the administrative body created by the PCA. He served as key adviser to the Senate and Congress committees during the drafting and deliberation of the PCA. He was a former trade negotiator and head of the Working Group on Domestic Regulation at the World Trade Organization.

RUPERT J.A. BUSTAMANTE IV is an MA student at the University of the Philippines School of Economics. Having done research on health in a time of climate change, and studies on the supply and demand of household water, he plans on finishing a thesis that seeks to add to the discussion of Welfare Economics and the Capabilities Approach. His research interests include Natural Resource Management and Art & Cultural Economics.

JOSEPH J. CAPUNO is a Professor and currently Director for Research at the University of the Philippines School of Economics, where he also got his PhD in 1997. He specializes in public economics, health economics and development economics.

RAMON L. CLARETE is a former Dean of the University of the Philippines School of Economics (2012-2015), where he has worked as a professor specializing in agricultural, development, and international economics since 1989. He is also the Chief-of-Party of several USAID projects focusing on national competitiveness, reforms, and government enhancement.

RAUL V. FABELLA is a Professor Emeritus and former Dean of the University of the Philippines School of Economics (1998-2007). He has taught at UPSE since 1982 and has published numerous articles in local and international journals in the fields of economic theory, trade, bargaining, public choice, industrial organization, exchange rate policy and agrarian reform. He was a recipient of numerous awards, including the National Scientist Award (2011) conferred by President Benigno Simeon Aquino III.

JHIEDON L. FLORENTINO is a researcher currently engaged with the UPecon-Health Policy Development Program (HPDP). He was previously connected with the Quality Improvement Demonstration Study (QIDS), a random experiment geared towards determining the impact of bonus payments and zero-copay on quality, utilization of health services, and health outcomes. He was also involved with the operations research of the Family Health Book program in Compostela Valley. He currently teaches undergraduate econometrics at the UP School of Economics and is the principal investigator on the survey among TB-affected households to determine catastrophic cost.

ALEJANDRO N. HERRIN is a retired Professor of Economics and is currently a Professorial Lecturer at the University of the Philippine School of Economics. Dr. Herrin is specializing in health economics and population economics, with extensive professional experience in the fields of health and population/family planning policy, gender mainstreaming, health care financing, local governance for health. He has worked with various government agencies in policy development, program and project assessments, and capacity building. Dr. Herrin has also provided technical assistance to international organizations, as well as foreign ministries of health and population in several countries.

PAUL D. HUTCHCROFT is Professor of Political and Social Change at The Australian National University. He is a scholar of comparative and Southeast Asian politics who has written extensively on Philippine politics and political economy. From 2009-2013, Hutchcroft served as founding Director of the School of International, Political and Strategic Studies (since renamed the Coral Bell School of Asia Pacific Affairs) in the ANU's College of Asia and the Pacific. He served on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin-Madison from 1993-2008, and has had shorter term appointments with the Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies (1991 to 1993) and the Asia Research Institute of the National University of Singapore (2004 and 2005). He holds MA and PhD degrees from Yale University.

XYLEE JAVIER completed her degree in BS Economics and Master in Development Economics from the University of the Philippines School of Economics in 2002 and 2008, respectively. She is currently the Team Manager of the Data Management Unit of the UPecon-Health Policy Development Program where she is involved in the providing technical assistance to the Department of Health and PhilHealth in select activities including policy assessment, design, monitoring and assessment of implementation research, data management and analysis and operations monitoring of FP/MNCHN and TB indicators, and monitoring of Universal Health Care implementation. Her other research interests include Income Taxation Analysis, and Poverty. Together with Commissioner Quimbo, she has worked on several studies on potential tax reform packages on personal income tax structures. The two authors are also part of the team that assisted in the analysis leading to the passage of the measure increasing the tax exemption cap for bonuses of salary and wage earners, now Republic Act 10653.

RAPHAEL P. M. LOTILLA currently chairs the Board of the Center for the Advancement of Trade Integration and Facilitation (CATIF) and the Asia-Pacific Pathways to Progress Foundation (APPF) and serves as a Trustee of the Philippine Institute for Development Studies (PIDS). He is also an Independent Director of several private companies. Atty. Lotilla was Secretary of Energy of the Philippines from 2005 to 2007, having previously served as Deputy Director-General of the National Economic and Development Authority, and President and CEO of the Power Sector Assets and Liabilities Management Corp. He previously served as Regional Programme Director of the Partnerships in Environmental Management for the Seas of East Asia (PEMSEA), a regional project funded by the Global Environment Facility (GEF) and implemented by the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP). Atty. Lotilla was also a Professor of Law at the University of the Philippines, the same university where he obtained his law, psychology, and history undergraduate degrees. He received his Master of Laws from the University of Michigan.

CIELO D. MAGNO is an Assistant Professor in the University of the Philippines School of Economics. She is a member of the Philippine Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (PH-EITI) Multi-stakeholders Group and the international board of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI). She earned her Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Economics from the University of the Philippines. As a Fulbright scholar, she earned her PhD in Law and Public Policy at Northeastern University in Boston.

RONALD U. MENDOZA is Dean and Associate Professor at the Ateneo School of Government. From 2011 to 2015, he was an Associate Professor of Economics at the Asian Institute of Management (AIM), and the Executive Director of the AIM Rizalino S. Navarro Policy Center for Competitiveness. Prior to that, he was a Senior Economist with the United Nations in New York. His research background includes work with UNICEF, UNDP, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, the Economist Intelligence Unit (EIU), and several Manila-based non-governmental organizations. His work has appeared in various peer-reviewed economics and policy journals; and he has also published several books on international development, public finance and international cooperation. His work includes Providing Global Public Goods: Managing Globalization (Oxford University Press 2003), The New Public Finance: Responding to Global Challenges (Oxford University Press 2006), Children in Crisis: Protecting the Vulnerable and Promoting Recovery for All (Palgrave MacMillan 2012) and Building Inclusive Democracies in ASEAN (Anvil Press, 2015 and Winner of the NAST Outstanding Book Award for 2016). Mendoza obtained his Bachelor's Degree in Economics (Honors Program) from the Ateneo de Manila University in the Philippines, his Masters in Public Administration and International Development (MPA-ID) from the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, and his MA and PhD in Economics from Fordham University. He is a recipient of various awards, including the 2012 National Academy of Science and Technology's Ten Outstanding Young Scientist (OYS) in the Philippines (in Economics), the World Economic Forum's Young Global Leaders in 2013, and Devex 40 Under 40 Development Leader in 2013. Mendoza is also a reserve officer with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel with the Philippine Air Force Reserve Command.

JUDE B. OCAMPO is a Philippine attorney specializing in tax and corporate law. He holds a Master of Laws degree from Harvard University and a Master of Business Administration degree (Finance and Supply Chain Management) from the UNC Chapel Hill's Kenan-Flagler Business School. He is a graduate of, and a former lecturer at, the University of the Philippines College of Law. A corporate and tax lawyer with 15 years of experience in the Philippines and abroad, he was a tax lawyer at Sycip Gorres Velayo & Co. (Ernst & Young Philippines), an international tax director with Ernst & Young (Hungary), a tax principal at KPMG Manabat San Agustin & Co. (Philippines), and a partner in the tax and legal department of Deloitte (Commonwealth of Independent States). He was most recently a regional tax director and deputy head of regional tax of DFDL, an international law firm focusing on high-growth Asian markets. He specializes in mergers and acquisitions, international corporate structuring, and international tax. Jude has assisted a number of global and ASEAN multinationals in multi-jurisdictional reorganizations. He also served in the Philippine government. From 2004 to 2005, he was Assistant Secretary for Legal Affairs of the Republic's Trade and Industry Department and Finance Department.

STELLA A. QUIMBO is a member of the Philippine Competition Commission. She is currently on leave as Professor at the UP School of Economics where she served as Department Chair from 2012 to 2015. From 2011 to 2013, she was a Prince Claus Professorial Chair Holder at the Erasmus University of Rotterdam in the Netherlands. Commissioner Quimbo has extensive research in the field of Health Economics, Industrial Organization, Microeconomics, Education, Poverty, and Public Policy and Regulation. This includes her authorship of numerous scientific publications. In 2009, NAST conferred on her the Outstanding Young Scientist Award. In 2010, she was awarded as one of The Outstanding Women in Nation's Service. In 2015, she was a recipient of the UP President Edgardo J. Angara Fellowship and UP Diliman Centennial Faculty Grant. In 2016, she was a Freedom Flame Awardee of a German foundation for liberal politics, Friedrich Neumann Foundation for Freedom Philippine Office. She obtained her BS in Economics (summa cum laude), MA in Economics and PhD in Economics from the University of the Philippines in 1991, 1993 and 2000, respectively. She spent a year at Brown University as a post-doctoral fellow in 2002 at the Population Studies and Training Center.

RENATO E. RESIDE, JR., is an Assistant Professor and Graduate Studies Director at the University of the Philippines School of Economics. His fields of interest include macroeconomics, investment, and public finance. He has extensive experience as Lead Economist, Team Leader or Consultant in various research projects. Some of these are Estimation of Tax Expenditures in the Philippines for the Department of Finance and World Bank, Manila; An Analytical Study of the Non-Investment Related Tax Incentive Laws of the Philippines for the Department of Finance and Japan International Cooperation Agency, Manila; Fiscal Incentives project for the Department of Finance and United States Agency for International Development.

ORVILLE JOSE C. SOLON is a Professor and Dean at the University of the Philippines School of Economics. He has over 20 years of extensive experience in research-based formulation of policies and programs on health sector reform. Prior to becoming Dean in 2015, Dr. Solon served as the Chief-of-Party (COP) of the Health Policy Development Program (HPDP), a USAID funded policy support project assisting the Department of Health in producing landmark policies on family planning, maternal and child health, TB, local health systems, and health care financing and expenditure management. Professor Solon also served as adviser to several Secretaries of Health, and contributed to the formulation of the National Health Insurance Act, Health Sector Reform Agenda (HSRA), Fourmula 1 (F1), and Kalusugan Pangkalahatan (KP).

JORGE V. TIGNO is a Professor in the Department of Political Science at the University of the Philippines in Diliman where he served as chairperson from 2013 to 2016. He has been with the Department since 1989. His research interests are in the fields of international migration, local governance, elections, and democratization. Dr. Tigno obtained his BA (Political Science) and MA (Political Science) degrees in the same Department and his DPA at the UP National College of Public Administration and Governance (NCPAG).