INTRODUCTION

Founded in 1985 by the late University of the Philippines (UP) President Edgardo J. Angara, the UP Center for Integrative and Development Studies (UP CIDS) is the University's policy research unit that aims to address problems of national significance by employing an integrative and collaborative approach in the conduct of studies on various aspects of public policy and harnessing the University's multidisciplinary expertise and expansive resources.

Based on then-UP President Angara's Executive Order No. 9 issued on September 24, 1985, UP CIDS has the following objectives and functions:

- Develop, organize, and manage research issues of national significance. Such issues, because of their importance and inherent complexity, require an integrative and collaborative approach and also more sophisticated research methodologies and skills;
- Encourage and support research and study on these issues by various units of the University and individual scholars;
- Secure funding from public and private persons and agencies; and
- Ensure that the research outputs and recommendations of the Center are published and openly disseminated.

Convenors' Meeting

UP CIDS is likewise guided by UP's Strategic Plan 2017-2023 and contributes to the University's thrust of (a) contributing to national development through knowledge creation and public service, and (b) promoting access and diversity through enhancing structures and policies for collaboration and undertaking internationalization efforts.

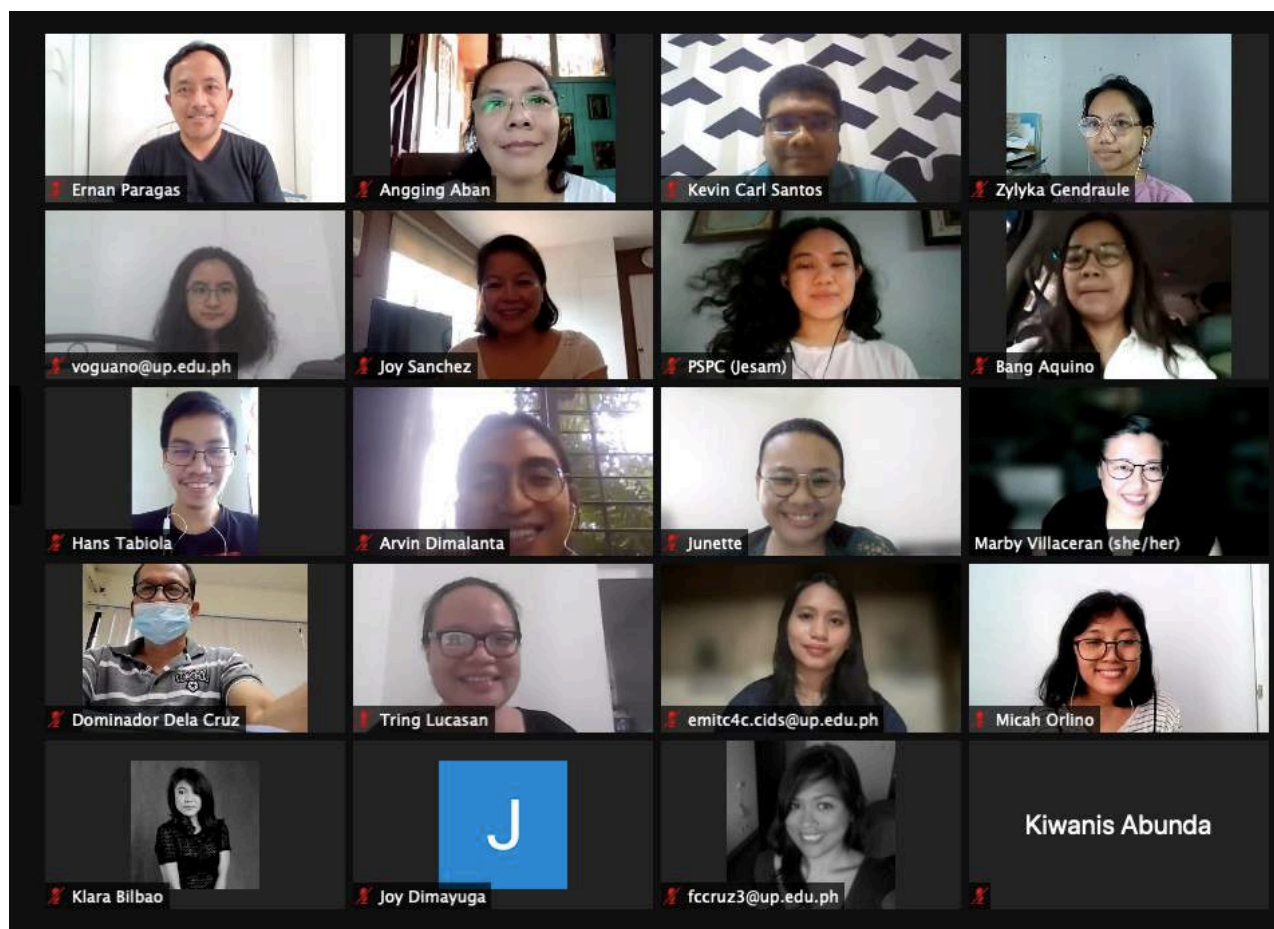

RESEARCH PROGRAMS

UP CIDS adopts a programmatic structure wherein a sizeable network of scholars is brought together and organized under Research Programs through which a shared research agenda is pursued and networks within and outside the University are built upon.

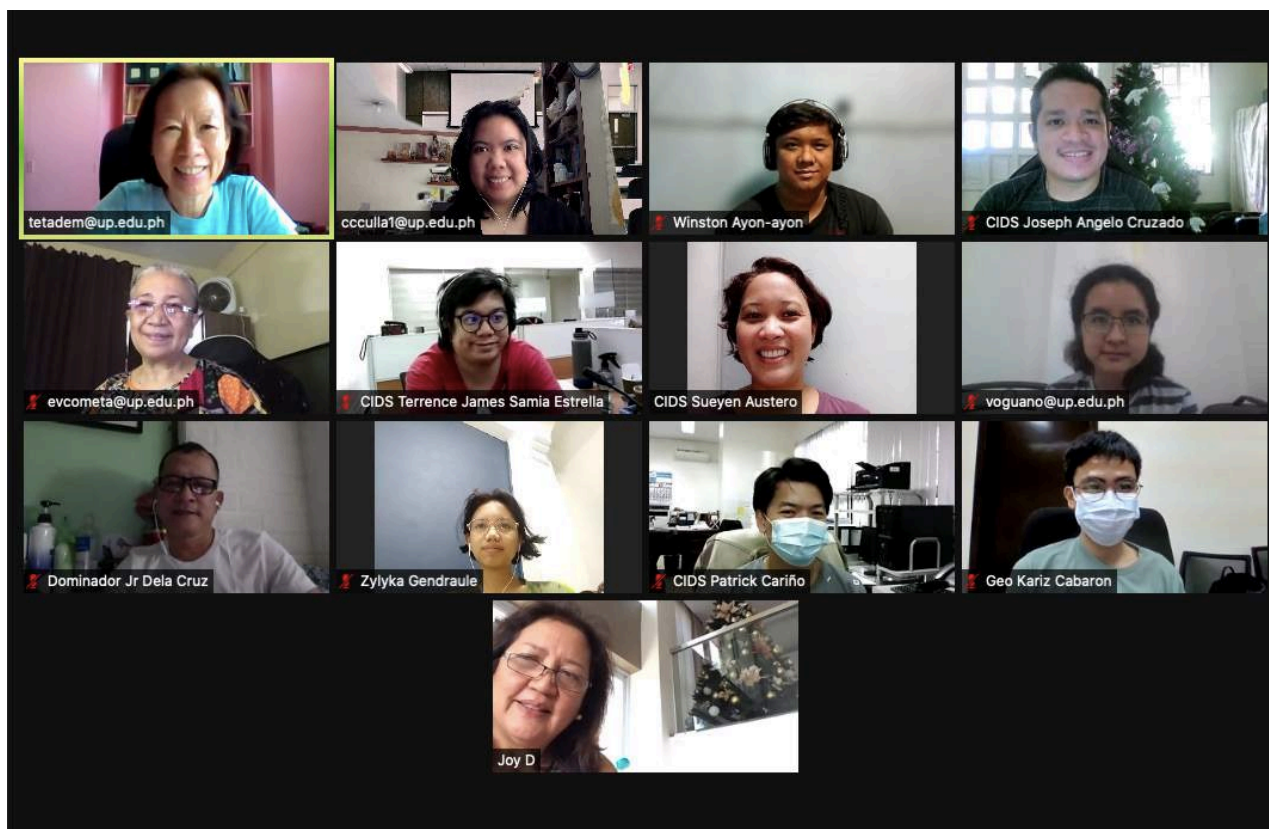

Consistent with its integrative and collaborative approach, UP CIDS also provides opportunities and venues for the various Research Programs to work on common themes and on emerging international and national policy concerns.

The Center currently supports twelve (12) Research Programs grouped into three general clusters. The Research Programs of UP CIDS are as follows:

- Education and Capacity Building Cluster
 - Education Research Program (ERP)
 - Program on Higher Education Research and Policy Reform (HERPRP)
 - Assessment, Curriculum, and Technology Research Program (ACTRP)

Core Staff

The Core Staff of the UP CIDS facilitates and supports the administration, finance, documentation, and dissemination of the projects and activities of the Center's Research Programs. The UP CIDS Core Staff coordinates with UP System offices and the UP CIDS Research Programs to effectively carry out its role and provide guidance and assistance on various matters.

The Core Staff is headed by the UP CIDS Executive Director and is housed in the UP CIDS Administrative Office. They are functionally organized into (1) Administration, (2) Finance, (3) Publications, and (4) Library and Resources.

POLICY RESEARCH AND NATION-BUILDING IN A TIME OF PANDEMIC

UP CIDS pursued its commitment to producing relevant policy research amid the pandemic. The examination of COVID-19-related issues and concerns continued to be undertaken in the Center's Program research endeavors and other activities. These studies were also embedded in previous policy research the Programs embarked on based on their respective mandates. In relation to this, the last installment of its "Philippine Public Policy in a Time of Pandemic: Confronting the COVID-19 Challenge" webinar series, "Making Our Way Back to the Classroom," was held last September 8, 2021. This was sponsored by the following UP CIDS Programs: Education Research Program (ERP), the Higher Education and Policy Reform Program (HERPRP), and the Assessment, Curriculum, and Technology Research Program (ACTRP).

Given the upcoming May 2022 elections, UP CIDS is a cosponsor of the initiative of the Office of the Chancellor, UP Diliman: the "#PILipiLUNAS2022: Pabangon at Pagsulong Tungo sa Magandang Buhay Bukas" webinar series. The Center's Program on Political Economy (PEP) assisted in establishing the secretariat for its Task Force on a Blueprint for Building the Nation. This endeavor has two major activities: (1) agenda-building consisting of a series of roundtable discussions; and a (2) one-day policy dialogue with national political candidates, which will present a "Governance Agenda for a Sustainable, Inclusive, and Innovation-Driven National Development" emanating from the policy recommendations from the roundtable discussions (RTDs).¹

In relation to this, these UP CIDS Programs organized the following #PILipiLUNAS webinars in partnership with the UP Diliman's Office of the Chancellor, Task Force Nation-Building.

1. "Balota at Pulitika sa 2022: May Bago Ba?" Co-organized by the Program on Social and Political Change (PSPC) (November 5, 2021);
2. "Is More Power to Local Governments More Power to the People? Elections, Devolution, and the Local Government Code Three Decades After" – Co-organized by PSPC (November 26, 2021); and
3. "Strategic Philippine Foreign Relations: Challenges and Prospects for 2022 and Beyond" – Co-organized by the Strategic Studies Program (SSP) (December 7, 2021)

UP CIDS also continued to pursue its digitization project. In partnership with the UP Diliman Main Library, the digitization of UP CIDS research collection began in the last quarter of 2021. This is targeted to be completed by 2022, coinciding with the launch of the Center's revamped website. Once done, this project will complete the full digitization of the Center's outputs since its establishment in 1985.

the full digitization of the Center's outputs since its establishment in 1985.

Alongside this, UP CIDS has also focused on other indexing and archiving matters of its publications. Last September 2021, the Center's in-house journal, the Philippine Journal of Public Policy: Interdisciplinary Development Perspectives (PJPP), has been given a digital object identifier (DOI). With this, all past, present, and forthcoming articles for PJPP are now more easily accessible online.

The Center also continued managing its administrative, financial, and legal records to comply with the proper records management practices in government offices. This was done by digitizing and archiving its office records. At present, UP CIDS has scanned and archived most of its inactive records, with some inactive records hailing from the 1990s and some semiactive records from 2013–2017. For 2022, UP CIDS aims to finish the remaining inactive and semiactive records and continue the archiving of the current active records from August 2017–present under the current UP CIDS Executive Director.

EDUCATION RESEARCH PROGRAM

The Education Research Program (ERP) conducts research based on its agenda, “Policy Investigations in Support of the Filipino Learner 2019-2024.” The areas of inquiry articulated in the agenda fall under three broad categories, namely Curriculum and Assessment, Instruction and Teacher Development and Governance, and Finance and School Improvement. Drawn from an analysis of education studies, as well as multiple stakeholder consultations, the agenda guides the work and investigations that ERP conducts as it aims to contribute to a deeper understanding of education delivery and implementation. Furthermore, ERP seeks to nurture a community of scholars researching education.

UPCOMING ACTIVITIES AND OUTPUTS FOR JANUARY TO JUNE 2022

ERP will continue pursuing its research agenda for 2022. Ongoing projects will be continued either by continuing ongoing activities or initiating into the next phases of the research plans. The areas for continuation are in the following strands: language and literacy studies, disinformation studies, and ICT for education research.

To commence are the language capture and ethnography research as well as the co-production research which are both components of the UsapTayo extension/iteration of the TalkTogether project. Hopefully, there will be opportunities to cooperate with lower-income communities so that the research can be conducted collaboratively with select members. School Snapshots will be further conceptualized and articulated so that partner schools can participate in progressive and developmental research on school operations during the time of transition from remote learning to blended learning delivery/modalities. Another research that will require community engagement is collaborative research agenda-setting for selected IP communities. This is in response to the interest among IP leaders to sustain the partnership with ERP on education research, particularly in relation to Mother Tongue-Based Multilingual Education (MTB-MLE).

Finally, ERP will continue to produce scholarly publications based on data that are ready for analysis and writing up. These include teacher development, early literacy performance, and the assessment of literacy.

ACTIVITIES

1. Language and Literacy Studies

a. SukatWika 2.0

The design for a study on text complexity assessment is being finalized. The study aims to establish text parameters per grade level based not only on its textual properties but also on the reading comprehension of target readers. The parameters drawn from this step will then be used to analyze existing learner resources.

The current version of SukatWika will be used extensively in determining psycholinguistic properties of text per grade level. The experience gained from its use in the study will further inform the improvements and additional features slated for SukatWika 2.0.

b. MLAF Continuation (Literacy Assessments)

In the hope of reaching more learners, the development of versions of the MLAF for remote administration (online and phone-based) will be explored and undertaken. This will prove to be useful even post-pandemic for learners in hard-to-reach areas with low technology. The current version will undergo further field-testing with a more diverse sample of learners (from private and public schools) once the health situation eases and protocols/guidelines are clearer. The development of tests for the next key stage (Grades 4 to 6) will also begin.

c. UsapTayo

UsapTayo is the extension of the TalkTogether project. Work on oral language development as it supports literacy development among young learners will be the focus of this project. Specifically, for 2022, the development of programs for parent-teacher intervention on activities with young children will be done. The research design for the qualitative research to accompany this inquiry is also underway.

2. Disinformation Studies

As the production and distribution of false and malicious information online have become more prevalent and sophisticated, ERP will conduct a free workshop for teachers titled, “Spotting Fake News Online.” This will be held via Zoom on January 29, 2022. Based on the curriculum on civic reasoning formed by Stanford History Education Group, the workshop provides tools and activities to help teachers in spotting fake news online. Data gathered from this workshop will also serve as data for disinformation studies research.

3. Educating Beyond Employability: The Case of Philippine Seafarers

UP CIDS, through HERPRP and ERP, will conduct an online webinar titled, “Educating Beyond Employability: The Case of Philippine Seafarers” via Zoom on March 30, 2022. Topics such as globalization, international labor, migration, and the regulation of Philippine maritime education will be presented and discussed by representatives from the academe, government, and private industry sectors.

4. ICT for Education (ICT4E) Studies

ERP aims to present ICT4E implementation in basic and higher education as reflected in UP System’s research, and ways to develop ICT4E research frameworks that can lead to national policies. The journal article which examines multiple education research for directions and future legislation is being finalized.

5. School Snapshots: What’s Going on in Schools Now

This area of research will focus on the transition from remote learning to blended learning delivery. There will be special emphasis on the assessment of learning.

6. Research Co-Production with IP Communities

Initial explorations on the possibility of collaborative research with select

IP schools will be conducted. Research topic/s will stem from the community with the objective of improving the quality of instruction in their schools. Once decided on the research questions, research protocols will be developed together with community members. It is because of the continuing effects of the COVID-19 pandemic and the remoteness of IP communities that activities for the next year are projected to be mainly exploratory in nature.

OUTPUTS

1. Scholarly articles on:
 - a. Teacher professional development on content knowledge
 - b. Oral language assessment in early childhood: Insights from a corpus of children’s literature in two languages
 - c. Papers from the Age of Acquisition research
 - d. Papers from the MLAF Children research
2. SukatWika Version 2.0 includes a user’s manual and initial findings about its functions and uses
3. Educating Beyond Employability: The Case of Philippine Seafarers

UP CIDS, through HERPRP and ERP, will conduct an online webinar titled, “Educating Beyond Employability: The Case of Philippine Seafarers” via Zoom on March 30, 2022. Topics such as globalization, international labor, migration, and the regulation of Philippine maritime education will be presented and discussed by representatives from the academe, government, and private industry sectors.

HIGHER EDUCATION RESEARCH AND POLICY REFORM PROGRAM

The Higher Education Research and Policy Reform Program (HERPRP) aims to chart a research agenda, systematically build an evidence base for policy analysis, and create a network of experts and researchers conducting work in the higher education sector. The Program also serves as a convening body that seeks to build partnerships and working collaborative networks among key stakeholders.

Data collection for the pilot study consisted of the following process: registration of participants, production and distribution of pilot study materials, assessment period, and collection of pilot study materials. Registration and assessment forms were made available both online and in paper form. In July 2021, assessment forms and support materials were printed and sent to four DepEd divisions, namely, NCR–Manila, Region IV–Batangas Province, Region XI–Davao City, and Region XII–South Cotabato. Four weeks were given to participants for the assessment period, and another week was allotted for the collection of accomplished forms. Data collected were sorted, scanned, and cleaned by ACTRP.

ADVISORY GROUP MEETINGS

Feasibility Study on Microcertification for the ALS in the Philippines

July 22, August 19, September 2 and 23, October 21, November 4, and December 1, 2021

Meetings with the advisory group were conducted to provide pilot study implementation updates to the panel, to seek advice on how to address issues encountered in the conduct of the pilot study, to solicit suggestions on the refinement of post-pilot study consultation questions for the research participants, to report preliminary data analyses results, and to consult about the costed road map and dissemination fora. The advisory group is composed of members of the DepEd Bureau of Alternative Education, and ALS experts/advocates from the Southeast Asian Ministers of Education Organization – Regional Center for Educational Innovation and Technology (SEAMEO INNOTECH) and UP College of Education. ACTRP's Australian and Philippine directors are also members of the panel.

POST-PILOT STUDY CONSULTATIONS

Feasibility Study on Microcertification for ALS in the Philippines

September 30, October 1, 4, and 5, 2021

Focus group discussions were conducted with selected pilot study participants: (1) Division ALS Focal Persons and Education Program Specialists for ALS, (2) ALS teachers, (3) ALS learners, and (4) raters nominated by learners. The consultations aimed to get feedback from the participants about the implementation of the pilot study from registration up to the collection of the materials. Questions were asked about the perception of participants regarding microcertification and the possibility of implementing it on a larger scale. Challenges encountered by the participants in using the assessment forms and the usefulness of the instruction guides were also explored.

MODULE DEVELOPMENT AND ONLINE TRAINING

COVID-19 Response Project on Enhancing Formative Assessment in Self-Learning Modules

July to December 2021

ACTRP attended meetings with the DepEd Bureau of Learning Delivery-Teaching and Learning Division (BLD-TLD) to finalize Parts 2 and 3 of the Self-Learning Module (SLM) Guides and Worksheets. STUDY

Learning Loss Study

August 20, 2021-ongoing

ACTRP has been tapped by the Bureau of Education Assessment (BEA) to assist in conducting DepEd's study on learning loss due to COVID-19. Particularly, ACTRP provided guidance on the research design and sample and in the review of test items to be included in the computer-based National Achievement Test (CB-NAT). ACTRP analyzed previous NAT Grades 6 and 10 data to determine which items could be used as linking items for the CB-NAT 2021. The study will be completed by the end of the first quarter of 2022.

PROGRAM ON DATA SCIENCE FOR PUBLIC POLICY

The Program on Data Science for Public Policy (DSPPP) has three objectives. First, it aims to build the capacity of University of the Philippines (UP) faculty in data science and apply this learned skill to public policy and governance. Second, it strives to engage a community of researchers within the university and encourage the pursuit of interdisciplinary problem-oriented research using high-level quantitative analyses. Finally, it seeks to convene multidisciplinary teams of social scientists, humanists, and scientists to research issues in the public sector.

CONSULTATIVE STAKEHOLDER MEETINGS

Data Science Working Group

July 14–December 10, 2021 (recurring meetings)

DSPPP continued to convene the Data Science Working Group and participated in the continued review of the inter-constituent unit (inter-CU) program proposals in the field of data science, in particular:

- Ph.D. in Data Science (College of Science, School of Statistics, and College of Engineering; UP Diliman);
- BSc in Data Science (UP Mindanao);
- MSc in Data Science for Development (UP Open University); and
- MSc/Ph.D. in Bioinformatics (College of Science, UP Diliman; and the Philippine Genome Center)

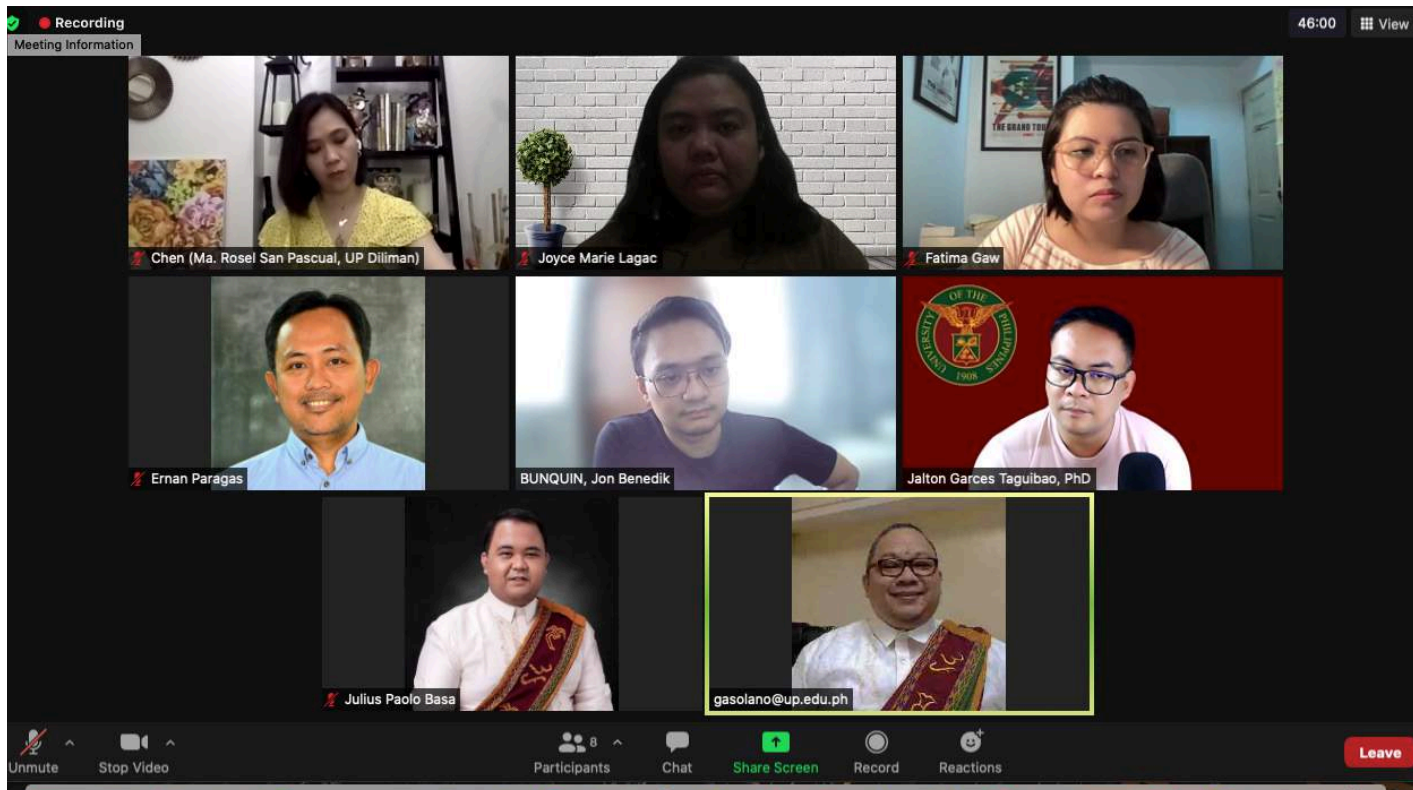

The Working Group also serves as an avenue to discuss the efforts of different UP units in addressing the COVID-19 pandemic's impacts. Various academic heads are also part of the meeting to integrate all data science efforts and setting up a facility to cater to UP researchers' needs in terms of big data analytics (BDA) and cloud computing, among others (e.g., installment of supercomputers for researchers and the launch of UP Data Commons).

CONSULTATIVE STAKEHOLDERS MEETING

CAPACITY-BUILDING ACTIVITY

Text Mining in Career Studies: Generating Insights from Unstructured Textual Data

July 23, 2021

The lecture explained the process of text mining as it is applied to the study of careers, starting with text preprocessing and ending with the application of analytical techniques.

Both conventional techniques, such as latent semantic and principal components analysis, and more novel text analytical techniques, such as word embeddings, are discussed. The lecture also hopes to inspire careers researchers to further embrace text analysis to answer novel research questions.

RESEARCH ACTIVITY

Analysis of Education-to-Labor-Market and Job-to-Job Transitions

September 24, 2021-Present

The research project aims to visualize transitions and create a model that can predict probable job transitions in a person's career using historical data of education-to-labor market transitions and job-to-job transitions. The project will build a model using sequence prediction algorithms, such as recurrent neural network and conditional random fields, among others.

Proceedings

- "Proceedings of Text Mining in Career Studies: Generating Insights from Unstructured Textual Data"

Working papers

- "The Role of Data in Post-Pandemic World"
- "Information System Capacity Asymmetries across various LGUs"

UPCOMING ACTIVITIES AND OUTPUTS FOR JANUARY TO JUNE 2022

DSPP will continue pursuing activities related to its internal research agenda, particularly on the governance of information systems. It will also look into labor market analytics and health data science. The outputs of these research activities will be submitted to UP CIDS for publication. Different capacity-building programs will also be pursued as part of DSPP's two-pronged thrust—the proceedings of which shall be compiled and submitted for publication to the Center.

ACTIVITIES

- Continuation of the labor analytics research activities

The project is conducting two labor analytics research activities. The first aims to use historical data of education-to-labor market transitions and job-to-job transitions, to create a model that can predict probable job transitions in a person's career. The second research project will create an algorithm that automatically detects and sorts job type information in vacancies. These job information may include worker attributes (skills, competencies, education), job activities, description of the business organization, benefits, and compensation. Consequently, the project will create the first skill taxonomy of Filipino workers in the Philippines.

- Research activities related to the Innovations in the Operationalization of Whole-of-Society Approaches in Pandemic-Related Information Systems

The research project aims to look at the experience of select local government units (LGUs) in improving their information system capacities in addressing the COVID-19 pandemic by gathering textual data from the discussions with LGUs and utilizing the data available from different social media pages of these LGUs to conduct quantitative analysis.

- Analyzing skill demand and taxonomies in the Mindanao region

Mindanao offers great potential in terms of manpower; however, many young workers cannot find suitable jobs because either they are not aware of the opportunities or there are mismatches in their education and available jobs in the labor market. The task is to develop profiles of skills and competencies required by companies operating in the Mindanao region. The result will be used to write a policy brief that makes recommendations on what skills education institutions should focus on developing for their students.

Rebuild the Philippine Economy by Strengthening Filipino Capabilities

When the Philippine Congress convened its regular session in July, Congressional leaders vowed to fast-track the enactment of laws that will have a long-lasting and wide-ranging impact. Certified as urgent by President Rodrigo Duterte, these bills will now allow 100-percent foreign ownership and management of vital public services and small retail businesses.

Specifically, three Senate bills are on the table:

Senate Bill Number (SBN) 2094 will reclassify key strategic sectors, previously considered public utilities under Commonwealth Act of 146 (or the Public Service Law) as “public services,” which may result in 100-percent foreign ownership in the country’s telecommunications and transportation sectors.

SBN 1156 will do away with the Foreign Investments Act of 1991 provision that reserves small and medium enterprises (i.e., valued at less than USD 200,000) to Filipinos, as it will allow foreigners to set up and wholly own businesses with a minimum of USD 100,000 under some conditions.

SBN 1840, complementing SBN 1156, will amend the Retail Trade Liberalization Act of 2000 by

PROGRAM ON ALTERNATIVE DEVELOPMENT

The Program on Alternative Development (AltDev) aims to look at paradigms, policies, practices, and projects largely marginalized and excluded from the mainstream. As these alternatives challenge dominant modes, they do not figure prominently in the national and international discourse. Hence, AltDev aims to bring these voices out of the margins and into the mainstream, leveling the playing field so that they may be regarded on an equal footing with the dominant discourse and therefore offer alternatives to the existing system.

UPCOMING ACTIVITIES AND OUTPUTS FOR JANUARY TO JUNE 2022

One major task at the start of the year 2022 is for the Steering Committee to convene again, review the results of the 3rd Southeast Asian Conference and plan the succeeding tasks in building the movement for alternative regionalism. Activities within the frame of people-to-people exchanges will still have to adjust to the current COVID-19 setup. Unless mobility restriction will be relaxed in the succeeding months, there will still be limited face-to-face interactions depending on the research partners' respective countries. Nevertheless, the digital space's strength will continue to be maximized.

The hybrid type of grassroots participation will still be encouraged and supported during online conferences and webinars. The language translation component and other technical concerns must be thoroughly discussed for effective exchanges. As such, the role of the Communications Committee, managed mostly by young people, will have to be expanded as core support to the Steering Committee. AltDev will continue to maximize its existing social media platforms (i.e., Lawan and Alternative Regionalism in Southeast Asia) to disseminate grassroots and community responses to COVID-19 and case studies of alternatives.

Online exchanges and linkages with other alternative practitioners will be possibly held in partnership with GTA. Within GTA, there is already an expression of interest to hold an online sharing of alternative cases of grassroots communities between Southeast Asia and South Asia, and Latin America.

If the situation already allows, AltDev will continue its field research and workshops in the Philippines and its pending case study development on the Alternatives in Southeast Asia monograph series. The Program's research writing and publication component will also prevail as this remains the backbone for the conduct of public lectures, online events, and people-to-people interactions related to the monograph series. The second volume of the Alternatives monograph series is intended to be published in 2022.

AltDev will also take opportunities to co-organize study conferences or lectures to highlight the Alternatives series through the academic track. Likewise, this can be a strategy to disseminate the published research's arguments and findings and expand linkages with other like-minded scholars.

ACTIVITIES

Social Media Project 2022

The Lawan social media platform remains a vital tool for dissemination and awareness-raising of community alternatives. For 2022, AltDev expects to expand its reach by collaborating with grassroots groups to produce content focusing on relevant issues in the region. The Program also aims to produce a research output detailing the methodology of community-led participatory action research using digital platforms. Finally, AltDev is considering replicating Lawan's success in its other digital platform, Alternative Regionalism in Southeast Asia, to extend the emerging movement's efforts in linking practitioners of alternative development in the region and beyond.

Documentation of Alternatives

For the past two years, AltDev has focused on researching COVID-19's impacts on vulnerable populations, as well as grassroots initiatives that started as a response to the pandemic. The Program did this to bring these to the attention of policymakers and the general public. This year, AltDev will resume its efforts to document different alternatives already being done in the grassroots that are not solely as pandemic responses but more so, initiatives to assert and defend their rights. The Program will also continue co-producing monographs covering the struggle and emergent alternative practices of people's organizations and marginalized communities in the Philippines and Southeast Asia.

Collaborative Project on Gender and Environment

AltDev and the Network for Transformative Social Protection (NTSP) are embarking on a collaborative research project on "Climate Justice and Adaptive Social Protection" for workers in the information technology and the informal sectors in the Philippines. This is funded by INSP!R Asia and the We Social Movements (WSM) of Indonesia under their "Gender and Environment Program." In addition, NTSP-AltDev will integrate the case studies from Bangladesh, Indonesia, India, and the Philippines and compile them in one project document output. The project timeline is from December 2021 to April 2022.

4th Regional Conference on Alternatives

The fourth installment of the conference will build on the achievements of the previous ones and assess the strategic direction of building the regional movement of alternatives in Southeast Asia. It will be a forum to evaluate the conduct and impact of online and offline activities and campaigns jointly organized by the network in 2022, as well as a platform to present additional alternative cases. This installment will aim to sustain and fortify the concrete efforts of building the regional movement of alternatives in Southeast Asia as a challenge to the dominant model of regionalism.

Movement Building for Southeast Asia Alternatives

After the formation of the movement for alternatives in Southeast Asia, AltDev will continue its engagement with its fellows and partners to harness and refine the results of the recent regional conference. It will also build on its past years of building the movement into concrete action steps toward creating stronger networks of solidarity and realizing the vision for an alternative regionalism. In 2022, the movement will design more structure and organization for the necessary mechanisms of alternative regionalism to be created. Further, collaborative undertakings centering on alternatives shall be jointly identified and undertaken by fellows and the movement's members.

PROGRAM ON HEALTH SYSTEMS DEVELOPMENT

The Program on Health Systems Development (PHSD) houses work that investigates problems and innovates solutions for health systems. Although this mission inevitably applies scientific rigor to the parts of health systems, the goal is to improve the whole in terms of overall performance and ultimate outcomes. Its flagship project is the Philippine Primary Care Studies (PPCS) with three sites: UP Health Service (UPHS), the Rural Health Unit (RHU) in Samal, Bataan and the RHU in Bulusan, Sorsogon.

the utilization of consults in Samal, Bataan, which tripled since PPCS started. Even when the pandemic hit, they were able to recover because they have an internet connection. Because of connectivity, we were able to set up telemedicine within 4–8 weeks, which has proven useful during the pandemic. Year 3 plans were also presented for approval of the funding.

Linking Mechanisms for Financing Primary Health Care and Governing Policies of Community Outpatient Benefit

October 14, 2021

Dr. Antonio Dans discussed the importance of linking the Rural Health Units (RHUs) to the service delivery network (pharmacies, laboratories, and transportation system). This can only be done by having mobile and internet access in all areas of the Philippines to make primary care accessible to all. He stressed the important role that the government plays in making this possible. That without the policies governing the healthcare system, health system reforms would not be made possible.

He pointed out that better healthcare access up to the level of the barangay will only be possible if there is mobile and internet connection even in the farthest and most remote areas in the country. Connectivity will give the doctors the ability to do telemedicine consults, thus more people will have access to health care. More access to health care will then improve the quality of care.

VIRTUAL EHR TRAINING FOR ONE HOSPITAL COMMAND CENTER

Training Orientation on a Primary Care-Oriented EHR for Use in Hospital Coordination

October 22, 2021

Dr. Jose Rafael Marfori co-presented in a training session directed at end-users and managers of the One Hospital Command Center (OHCC), which was promptly set up after the pandemic began for coordinating inpatient demand across hospitals. Hence, it is appropriate to maximize the clinical functionality that is already built into the e-Med Primary Care Health Information System, a PPCS research product now being codeveloped and deployed through a partnership between UP Manila and E-Med Healthcare Solutions, Inc. It was designed for UHC and is being marketed with a focus on local government implementation of health systems integration in pursuit of the UHC Act.

The term modernity/coloniality is often used with reference to continuing and often deleterious processes, conditions, and attitudes brought about by the colonial period that, Anibal Quijano and Walter D. Mignolo argue, are inextricably linked to the epistemology of modernity. The Decolonial Studies Program (DSP) focuses on the varying dimensions of coloniality/modernity that continue to impact Global South societies and hinder their institutions from achieving their liberating potential.

The event was held online through Zoom and broadcasted live publicly through Facebook. An archived version of the live broadcast is available on the UE ISSo's official Facebook page.

UPCOMING ACTIVITIES AND OUTPUTS FOR JANUARY TO JUNE 2022

For the first half of 2022, DSP will orient its focus on decolonial legislation and curricula.

First, for decolonial legislation, existing policies by and for IPs have been lacking in several areas. Disputes over ancestral lands versus corporations, issues on indigenous education being unrecognized by the state, and sanctioned silencing of news about IP issues are only some examples of these deficiencies or the results of these deficiencies. With firmer and more culturally cognizant legislation to protect and uplift IPs and their culture, the harmful influence of colonial structures could be supplanted.

Thus, DSP has decided to dedicate time and resources to aim for a Philippine legislative government arm that is sensitive to IP issues and is more knowledgeable about decolonial theory and practice in policy making.

Secondly, the Philippine education system relies heavily on a Western system, best seen with how most subjects are written and taught with English as the primary medium and with Western thinkers and pioneers in the spotlight. Relying on this system with mostly Western schools of thought has resulted in an academic environment not truly congruent with the plural cultures of the Philippines.

As such, knowledge from indigenous sources are routinely ignored, even by Philippine scholars, because of a colonial, and largely unconscious, bias. To help dismantle this bias, DSP aims to spark discussion again on decolonial education.

To fulfill these major directives and goals for the first half of 2022, DSP currently plans to hold two major activities to facilitate these goals: (1) a two-day workshop on decolonial legislation with the BARMM Parliament and (2) a second roundtable discussion on a decolonial syllabus. The two-day workshop will tackle writing policies suitable for the Moro peoples, whereas the roundtable discussion with academics, professors, and/or workers collaborating on a decolonial syllabus will continue off from the previous roundtable and expound further on what has already been discussed. Discussion papers, proceedings, and policy briefs shall be produced after these activities. Furthermore, DSP also plans to begin establishing linkages with academics and academic institutions devoted to decolonizing their respective fields and partner with entities directly working for and with IPs in the Philippines.

Additionally, DSP also has a currently ongoing application for the VLIR-UOS Short Initiative for a project to research representations of Filipino Muslims in print media and social media. This project is related to digital archiving, multimedia literacies, and the tracing of coloniality in these archived texts. It will also be linked to an ongoing project sponsored by the University of Antwerp, which investigates digitized newspapers from the Spanish, American, and post-World War II eras. Since archived texts such as these are linked to minority narratives and etic perspectives, it is pertinent to research these to rediscover and trace the representations of minority groups in the Philippines.

ACTIVITIES

1. Workshop on Decolonial Legislation (March 2022)

This workshop aims to explore, discuss, and elaborate on the usage of decolonial approaches in crafting legislative measures (i.e., bills, resolutions) in the Bangsamoro Parliament. It also strives to illustrate decoloniality's importance in the lived experiences and sociocultural realities of the Moro peoples vis-à-vis the world of policy making and implementation. It shall be conducted in either an online webinar format or a two-day workshop for a comprehensive and appropriately aligned lecture on decolonial theory and practice and its legislative application concerning the BARMM and the IPs within its jurisdiction.

2. Roundtable on Decolonial Syllabi (May 2022)

In December 2019, an earlier roundtable discussion has already been held, providing an in-depth discussion on creating a decolonial syllabus in a holistic sense and tackling how decolonizing syllabi in more specific fields (i.e., social sciences and medicine and public health). A second roundtable, tentatively scheduled for May 2022, aims to further expound how a decolonial syllabus could be structured. Specifically, discussions on the syllabus's goals, ideas, learning outcomes or developed skills, readings or other appropriate resources to be included, activities, potential design of a decolonial course pack in module format, and other details would be conducted. There can also be discussions on a holistic and comprehensive decolonial syllabus or a decolonized version of syllabi in more specific fields. Various scholars and academics working on decolonizing their own curricula and professionals and volunteers working for and with IPs shall be invited to this roundtable.

OUTPUTS

1. Discussion paper on decolonial legislation
2. Proceedings for the March 2022 seminar-workshop
3. Policy brief

EXTERNAL FUNDING

The UP President Executive Order 9 of September 1985 includes UP CIDS' objective of the securing funds from public and private persons and agencies to support its policy research activities. In line with this objective, the Education Research Program (ERP), Assessment, Curriculum, and Technology Research Program (ACTRP), the Program on Alternative Development (AltDev), the Program on Health Systems Development (PHSD), the Program on Social and Political Change (PSPC), the Islamic Studies Program (ISP), and the Strategic Studies Program (SSP) were among the UP CIDS research programs that secured and utilized external funding in 2021.

The combined external funding of the aforementioned Programs comprised 54% of the Center's funds for 2021, whereas the Center's internal funding allocated for the Research Programs amounted to 46%. For 2021, external funding actually made up more of the total research program funds compared to internal funding from the University.

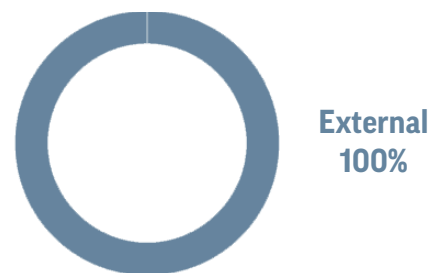

Education Research Program (ERP)

The Education Research Program (ERP) used external funding, amounting to 33.0% of its entire Program budget for 2021. The external fund was used primarily for its TalkTogether Project. The United Kingdom Research and Innovation-Global Challenges Research Fund (UKRI-GCRF) financed the Project, which later on published technical reports and finalized open data archiving.

Assessment Technology (ACTRP) Curriculum Research and Program

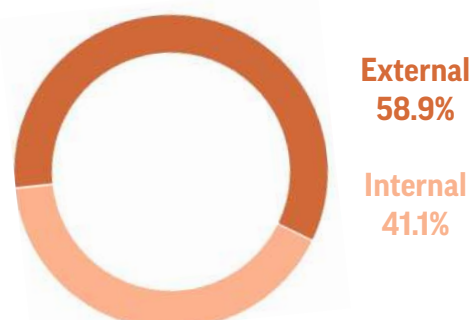

The Assessment Curriculum and Technology Research Program (ACTRP) is fully funded by the Assessment Research Centre (ARC) of the University of Melbourne (UoM) and the Australian Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade (DFAT).

Program on Alternative Development (AltDev)

In 2021, the Program on Alternative Development (AltDev) was able to source external funds for its research activities. Its external funding comprised 58.9% of its total budget for 2021, whereas its internal UP CIDS funding made up the remaining 41.1%.

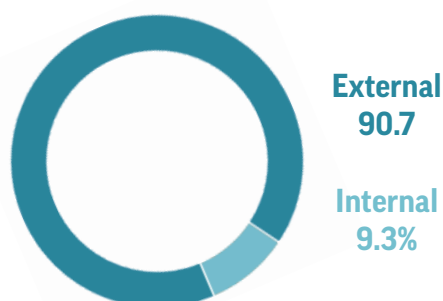

AltDev's external funding were sourced from the following: (1) Fostering Southeast Asian Peoples' Alternative Regionalism in Pandemic Times and Rising Authoritarianism Project (with 11.11.11 Coalition of the North-South Flemish Movement); and (2) the 2021 General Appropriations Act (GAA) for Comprehensive Release (FCR), which supported its "Policy Studies for Political and Administrative Reform" project.

Program of Health Systems Development (PHSD)

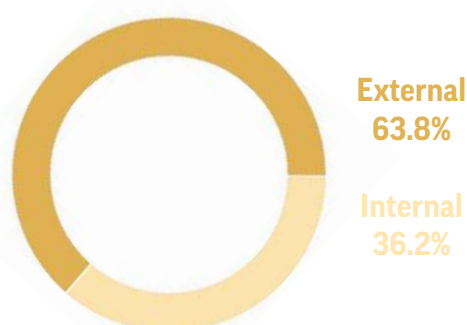

For the Program of Health Systems Development (PHSD), majority of its funding came from external sources (90.7%). PHSD's external funding sources include the following: (1) Department of Health-Advancing Health through Evidence-Assisted Decisions (AHEAD); (2) Philippine Council for Health Research and Development; and (3) PhilHealth.

PHSD's external funding was used to support its research budget, in terms of personnel services and indirect costs, and to provide healthcare benefits for patients in rural and Geographically Isolated and Disadvantaged Areas (GIDA) sites.

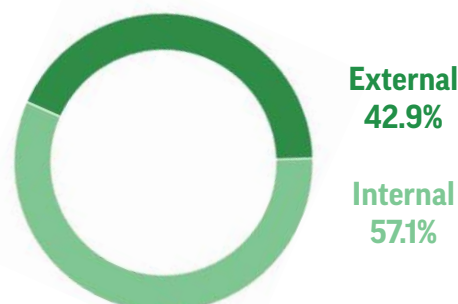

Program on Social and Political Change (PSPC)

In 2021, majority (63.8%) of the Program on Social and Political Change (PSPC)'s funding came from external sources, whereas 36.2% were from internal funds. Its two external funding sources are: (1) the 2021 General Appropriations Act (GAA) for Comprehensive Release (FCR), which supported its "Policy Studies for Political and Administrative Reform" project; and (2) the National Research Council of the Philippines (NRCP).

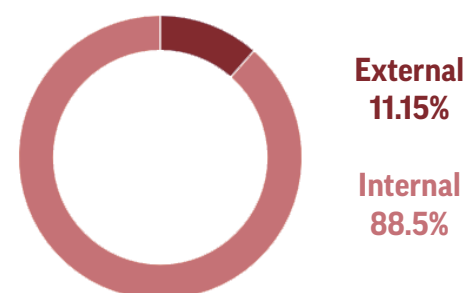

Islamic Studies Program (ISP)

Majority (57.1%) of the Islamic Studies Program's 2021 budget came from internal funding, but ISP was able to secure 42.9% in external funding from the Global Community Engagement and Resilience Fund (GCERF) through the Institute for Autonomy and Governance (IAG).

Strategic Studies Program (SSP)

Although majority (88.5%) of the Strategic Studies Program (SSP)'s funding came internally, SSP was also able to secure external funding (11.5%) from Konrad Adenauer Stiftung Philippines. SSP used this fund to finance speakers and moderators, transcribers, and documenters, among others for the podcasts/webinars it conducted, as well as the expenses that were incurred in the publication production of these.
